

Competences framework

Specialized Master in EU Interdisciplinary Studies

The graduate from the Institute for European Studies is able to...

- 1. Acquire, maintain and develop knowledge in several fields related to EU studies in order to have a multifaceted reading of a societal phenomenon affecting the EU and to
 - Understand the functioning of EU institutions and decision-making process
 - Explain the trajectories of current EU events and policies
 - Understand the relationship between the abstract character of theories, conceptualizations and their societal implications
 - Situate every phenomenon in its EU socio-historical context
 - Analyse power relationships within EU institutions and within Member States societies
 - Identify the challenges of complex social phenomena
 - Understand the dynamics of relationships between actors in different political, economic and social systems in the EU
- 2. Communicate in a written or oral form taking into account the interlocutor and the context of enunciation
 - Use abstract concepts in an appropriate manner
 - Provide critical arguments and use them to the right purpose
 - Be able to quote sources and to elaborate a bibliography following academic criteria
 - Elaborate an oral or written argumentation
 - Summarise dense or complex material without losing the original sense
 - Develop a clear, documented and original argumentation
 - Write in a clear, structured and adequate language, based on scientific demonstration
 - Be able to take notes and to analyse them
 - Communicate in English in different situations at B2 level minimum: (EU reference framework : <https://europass.cedefop.europa.eu/en/resources/european-language-levels-cefr>)
 - Embrace other languages and European cultures
 - Acquire knowledge of different cultures and ways of living
- 3. Conceive and implement projects
 - Apply scientific methods in terms of data collection and analysis (interviews, collect qualitative and quantitative data, data analysis)
 - Develop methods in the framework of EU studies to understand social, political, economic or cultural phenomena in order to apply them to new cases
 - Show discernment when it comes to select information sources in order to use them in a proper manner
 - Be autonomous and take initiatives
 - Collect and organize data

 - Manipulate, manage, analyse, process qualitative and quantitative data
 - Be able to multitask
 - Plan a long term work
 - Be able to manage time
 - Evaluate all necessary tasks to accomplish a project
 - Hierarchize priorities
 - Work in team
 - Mobilize one's interpersonal qualities

4- Develop a personal ethic sense

- Acquire a scientific spirit by practicing reflexivity and being able to question oneself
- Think in an independent way
- Respect deontology rules
- Reject plagiarism
- Deconstruct stereotypes
- Develop a critical sense towards societal phenomena at EU and national level

5- Act as a specialist on the study field

Specialized Master in EU Interdisciplinary Studies	<ul style="list-style-type: none">▪ Develop an interdisciplinary high-level expertise related to EU integration▪ Understand the functioning of EU institutions, bodies and agencies▪ Examine in an interdisciplinary manner the political, economic, social, historical and cultural challenges of EU integration▪ Analyse the relations between the EU and Member States on one side and third countries/international organizations on the other side▪ Analyse and develop a critical understanding of EU policies▪ Realise a research thesis or a professional report drawing on a rigorous scientific approach
--	---